Monday morning the Atlanta theatre box office was opened for the sale of seats to the Al G. Field ministerial show on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with the second act, the word "criminally" particularly fitting, being as it was to wear a distinctive brand, just as the convict is made to wear stripes.

Just as it often does, the congress passed resolutions outlining its purposes and future work in this section, and thanking the Atlanta people for the manner in which it made its meeting possible.

The resolutions, so far record, are the most prolific profanations of citizenship and government, the adherents of which are particularly those in those circulating in prostitution, terrorism, perjury, it seems, to destruction and lawlessness.

"It is a defiance of the law and order," continued the spokesman, "for a newspaper or individual to comment on the conduct of men which which has voted to be free."

The resolution like all others is to the effect that which ought to be the guardians of our home and youth."

In terms of women and other sexual pictures which can only breed evil in the public mind, the resolution goes on.

"We believe that there ought to be a city, state and nation law that would prevent the production of any picture that is immoral in its suggestion, in its meaning, in its intent.

We deem such legislation in behalf of youth as much the duty of government as the protection of life and limb.

Mr. McConnell, like all criminal lawyers, created a sensation in the community. He was speaking on "The City and the State," the rights of the indigent and dishonest politician.

"Unwashed and unworkable persons, men and women, are an unconscionable state of greed and self-satisfaction, and the solution of these problems," said he.

"Ignorance and indifference are the two great enemies of the government," said he. "Our southern problem is not negro, but it must not be granted the right to vote who cannot understand it."

Some candidates use a platform to catch votes, never intending to comply with their promises, while others like the negro who uses a warm stick to drive his children with a cold stick.

A committee will contribute money to the drawing power of the show will be the offering of Hermine Show and company presenting "Lambs" and the pretentious melodrama that has been accepted in vaudeville.

Encouraged by this splendid support Manager Kelley has secured for this year's production that the pretentious play that could be offered by such a company. It is entitled, "The Girl in the Window," a story of the life, love and hatred of the interesting type of the Canadian woods.

A bit of news of interest.

For the attraction this week,

Bessie Wynn, probably the most popular girl in the country, will be the old entertainer when she comes to Atlanta.

She has scored a hit in the hearts of the Canadian woods.

A feature will contribute much to the drawing power of the show will be the offering of Hermine Show and company presenting "Lambs" and the pretentious melodrama that has been accepted in vaudeville.

The Kinetacolor subjects cannot be seen in any other place than the grand hall of the national color movies serve to attract a multitude of people every day.

Chief Beavers hopes by this means to rid the city of petty thieves and burglar who have been committing depredations lately.

William D. Upshaw, Atlanta lawyer, who in the session of the congress was present, expressed the opinion that the mother of 15-year-old Lee Lavinia Nahir, aged 18 months, had been strangled to death in the lawn, where she had been picked up by a man.

After an extended search the mother found the injured child, which was then in the hands of a man. She was found that every rib on the left side of the little girl's body had been broken.

The house, which had strayed into the yard, was covered with fallen leaves over the child's body and away, and the mother knew nothing of the accident, but she did not know what to do.

Judge Doan was a pioneer resident of Hapeville and was widely known in his community. He died in his home and his wife and one daughter, Mrs. J. P. Riley, his son-in-law, were present at the pending funeral arrangements. He will be buried with Masonic honors.

Mother Finds Child Unconscious on Lawn; Kicked by Stray Horse

While her mother, Mrs. James Nahir, of 15 Terry street, searched anxiously over the neighborhood Sunday afternoon for her missing 18-month-old Lee Lavinia Nahir, aged 18 months, she found the tiny victim lying in the grass in the rear of the lawn, where she had been picked up by a man.

Barry Wright Named Secretary When Commission Is Formally Organized

Members Homeless for Many Months Can Now Reach Lodge for So Many Months an Island Lost in Seas of Turn-Over Paving

The Elks' home of Atlanta Lodge No. 78 has been moved back to Atlanta.

Many long weary months it has been on the opposite side of Ivy street down town, might as well have been on the other side of the Rhine, so far as accessibility was concerned.

Now the pavement has been laid in Ivy street; and once more the homeless Elks of Atlanta can get to their own Lodge without risk of disorientation.

Secretary Mast and Superintendent Shumaker, who stayed on Elks Island when Ivy street was disrupted for its improvement, are now housed now by the city, stay and make what were once mere shanties into a factotum office with no purpose other than mere entrance.

Now the Elks' home is in the quiet shadow of the Georgia mountains.

Mr. Richard Sterling, who is portraying the character of the Rev. J. J. H. Jackson in "The Virginian," is here again, this time in the capacity of a stage director.

"The Virginian," which will appear at the Loring all the week is a drama, a play to bring out the finer feelings of the audience, not in the like of a drama battle, but in a more factual setting with no purpose other than mere entrance.

REGRADING WHITEHALL STARTS OCTOBER 15

Trolley Cars on West End and Cooper Lines to Be Sent Down Forsyth Street

Work on the regrading of Whitehall street from Mitchell to Garnett street shall commence on October 15, it was agreed yesterday by the city commissioners and representatives of the two service corporations, held Monday morning.

The authorities expect to complete the work soon enough to prevent interference with the rush of business that the Christmas holidays will bring to the street.

Representatives of the trolley and telephone companies, officials of the water and sewer departments mapped out details of the work in order that the wiring, conduits and tracks may be eliminated.

The two trolley and Cooper lines will be routed down Forsyth street after the curbing would be completed so that the curbing would not be touched until the street grade has been lowered, thus allowing pedestrians to pass up and down the curb without difficulty.

The authorities expect to operate cars on that section of Whitehall while the work is in progress.

The regrading of Whitehall for the two blocks will entail the moving of 12,000 cubic yards of dirt, and will cost $100,000.

The grade at Trinity avenue will be lowered 8 feet.

JUDGE BROYLES SPEAKS TO NEGRO CONGREGATION

Five Stumbling Blocks to Negro's Progress, Recorder Tells Audience

Whisky drinking, gambling, pistol toting and vagrancy are checked in progress of the negro race, Judge Nash A. Broyles told a Negro congregation which packed a congeration of negroes, which packed the Big Bethel A. M. E. church Sunday afternoon.

Approximately 3,000 negroes gathered in the church to hear the address of the famous police court judge, which was the second in a series of lectures given by the colored Y. M. C. A.

"The negro must know to know, was the title of the recorder's address, in the course of which he made a strong plea for the negro to conform to the enforcement of the country's laws.

After announcing his "stumbling blocks" Judge Broyles said:

"If you men and women here, representing the negro race, will give the negro a chance to stand on his feet, will put your shoulders to the wheel, working among the masses of negroes, then you will see where they are holding you down, there is no doubt of my opinion."

Broyles will be your greatest help in the fight. Send your children to school, let them have a good education, let them have law abiding, and then the fight is won."

"The negro is here to stay," declared Judge Broyles in the course of his address, "and we must do our best to help him along the line of the colonization scheme, which is being suggested now among who are in mind to do the negro good. You are citizens of this country, just the same as myself, and your rights must be respected and given every consideration."

The great audience listened attentively to every word in the recorder's address, and gave a hearty round of applause.

The recorder was followed on the platform by Mr. W. M. May, a representative of the Methodist church, colored, who highly commended the advice to the race given by Judge Broyles.

CRACKENS LEAVE NOTE OF REGRET IN ATLANTA

No clue has been found by the city detectives to the identity of the cracken who left a note of regret in Atlanta, Campbell Coal company's branch office at 516 Marietta street, early this morning, and left $100 in cash.

The robbery was not discovered until later in the day, when the manager of the office went there looking for some papers. That only clue on which the police have come up with the handwriting, evidently disguised, on which the note was written, does not express their regret at having been forced to damage the safe to get to the note.

The note reads as follows: "Sorry to tell you I am leaving Atlanta, Georgia, and will not be back again. Please advise me to get a new and stronger safe. The goddamned Crackens."

Entrance to the office was gained by the cracken through a window which was broken in. A charge of nitroglycerine was used to blow open the safe, and the safe was completely damaged by the explosion. Chief of Detectives Lansford declares that his suspicion is that the cracken was an ex-criminal, who dropped off a train en route for the south, and who cracked first at that, met these eyes. The branch office is near the railroad yards.

Burlesque Pleases

That the large crowd that witnessed the opening performance of the Columbia house Saturday evening was pleased with the performance is indicated by the fact that the demand for tickets was greater than ever was given as before the opening Saturday, when the persons were turned away. The matinee with the curtain even arrived, and at night, at 7:30, and so on.

COMFORTING WORDS
Many an Atlanta Household
Will Find Them So

We have the pains and aches of a bad back, and the ills and ills caused by anything dangerous urinary disease. It is enough to make any kidney sufferer feel sick. We have the service of one who has suffered well proved words to hundreds of Atlanta residents.

Mrs. Henry F. Smith, Five pine, East Peachtree street, has been suffering from intense pain from disordered kidneys. The trouble came on almost before I realized it, and for a long time I suffered terribly. When I stooped to pick up a chair, sharp twinges of pain in my hips and back, and at night this trouble kept me from getting my proper rest. I had to give up all my play. This cured me. From that day to this I have had the slightest symptom if kidney trouble.

Spooning, Matrimony, and The Police Are Discussed In Many Atlanta Pulpits

Deaths and Funerals

Critics of Police and Chief Beavers Flayed by Ministers—Newspapers Made an Ass of Atlanta, Declares Dr. John E. White

Speaking, hazing, courting and their relation to matrimony, reform of the police and other subjects were the issues that for months have stirred Atlanta politically and socially since the Christmas holidays will bring about a stirring in the pulpits.

Representatives of the trolley, gas and telephone companies, officials of the water and sewer departments and newspapermen mapped out details of the work in order that the wires, conduits and tracks may be eliminated.

LOW TEMPERATURE DID NOT HURT COTTON CROP

Mercury Reached 46 Degrees
Here, but Bureau Says High
Wind Saved Cotton

According to the local weather bureau there was not enough frost anywhere in Georgia last night to do any damage to the cotton crop. The temperature of 46 degrees was reached but the high wind which prevailed all night prevented any frost from forming. The two sisters, well advanced in age, were ushered into the outer office by their mother, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Bell, and Miss Katherine Johnson, matron in charge of the Rome cottage, and Miss

Maiden Ladies Ask At White House for President "Tommy"

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—President Wilson today larked his way to the White House in the mouth when two young girls, the two sisters, asked him to call on the president.

The two sisters, who are the daughters of Robert A. Gordon, vice president of the American Furniture company, as a member of the board of directors, called on the president to ask him to call on the president.

Mr. Gordon, who is president of the American Furniture company, as a member of the board of directors, called on the president to ask him to call on the president.

The Free Banana.

The action of the tariff conference committee in voting to leave bananas on the free list is, in one respect at least, significant. It disarms the critics of the measure of one of their favorite and most frequently brandished weapons. Not even the removal of the wool duty provoked so solemn a protest from Republican patriots as did the Senate amendment placing a tax of one-tenth of one cent a pound on imported bananas. This one item of the tariff bill, they contend, marked the Democrats as Bourbons at heart and scorners of the plain people.

To these sensitive souls, the very thought of taxing a banana was diabolical. Clothes should be taxed, farming implements should bear a tariff, the higher the better; but when it came to burdening that innocent and all popular fruit, the banana, with a vestige of import duty, the apostles of protection turned radical free-traders. They could wipe away their fears and see a ray of hope for the country's industry and for the working people despite free wool, they could gather a morsel of comfort in the removal of the duty on sugar; but when they mused upon the banana, ruthlessly shackled with a duty of one-tenth of one cent per pound, their compoisse cracked and "the fruitful river of the eye" burst all its levees.

Now that the Senate conferees on the tariff committee have receded from their amendment and have consummated that bananas shall continue on the free list, the critics of the bill may cease their lamentation. We doubt that the consequence would have been quite so tragic as they pictured it, had the duty remained. But it is distinctly gratifying that the duty has been withdrawn. The result will be encouraging to our South-and-Central American trade, which ought to be fostered whenever and however occasion permits.

Making the Army Popular.

Secretary Daniels and Secretary Garrison are putting new and reasonable ideas into their respective departments. The former has suggested that the navy instead of being regarded merely as a great fighting machine held in readiness for some contingent need be conducted also as a liberal school whose members may acquire practical education that will make them useful to themselves and to the country as citizens in time of peace as well as in the event of war. Secretary Garrison advocates a kindred policy for the army. It is high time, he believes that something be done to bring the army into closer touch with the daily interest of the public. "The great need of the United States army," he has well said, "is that the people of the United States should know more about it and care more about it." One means to this end, the Secretary thinks, is to shorten the term of enlistment and give the men a vocational training that will fit them for some gainful pursuit when they are back in private life.

Such a plan would doubtless attract to the army hundreds of young men who now are discouraged to enlist because of the fact that at the end of four years, if they wished to retire, they would be no better prepared for self-support than at the beginning of their term. "But suppose," says one writer in commenting on Secretary Garrison's suggestion, "the term of enlistment were reduced to three years, only part of the term being served with the colors. A young man just out of school would be glad of the opportunity to get military training, especially if he knew that as soon as he became efficient he would be retired to the reserve, thus being enabled to enter business and begin his life's work." The only other requirement would be that he hold himself in readiness in case he should be needed for the purpose of war."

This plan, together with a system of vocational training, would induce a greater number and a high quality of enlistments; it would steadily build up a reserve force, one of the army's prime needs, and at the same time it would make the army a constructive and far-reaching influence for practical education.

Utilizing the Parcel Post To Reduce the Cost of Living.

Efforts are being made the country over to utilize the parcel post as a direct medium of exchange between the producers and the consumers of table supplies. The post offers rich opportunities in this respect, but they have not yet been turned to due account. Hundreds of farmers have butts and eggs and other products which they wish to sell at fair-prices. Thousands of city households are ready and eager to buy. As between the farm and the city runs the parcel post with its relatively low rates and deliveries. It only remains for these potential sellers and buyers to seize their common advantage.

But the producer and the consumer, as the Baltimore Sun points out, must make themselves known to each other; and in this connection the Sun offers a timely suggestion: "Why should not the farmers in every locality within the twenty-pound zone form selling clubs and advertise their products and thus reach the city consumers direct? City neighborhood clubs could be formed to buy from the country sellers, and thus a regular and reliable source of supply and demand could be established as to certain products which are needed in the household every day."

The parcel posts of Europe are constantly employed for this purpose, and that is doubtless one reason why the cost of many necessities is less in Europe than in the United States. Certain it is that direct trading between those who grow and those who consume table commodities would tend appreciably to reduce our cost of living. The parcel post has opened a way to this accomplishment.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who thought a woman should not have been engaged any oftener than she had been married, and that one marriage was enough for any woman?

The Tearing Up of Streets.

Atlantians can keenly sympathize with the writer in the Louisville Courier-Journal who complains that the repair and extension of water or gas pipes and electric conduits "is one of the things that gets on the nerves of citizens who pay taxes and take pride in their place of habitation." In the business district, a torn-up street impedes traffic and discourages trade; in residential districts, it is a painful tearing up of thoroughfares betwixt a city's management. Progressive municipalities are giving this matter earnest attention. The current issue of the Engineering Record notes a number of regulations that have been adopted in this regard, among those of New York City.

"In New York," says the Record, "previous to the laying of a new pavement the city departments and utility companies which have subsurface structures are notified and ordered to make such repairs, renewals and extensions as will care adequately for their services for several years to come. Thereafter permits for street openings are not granted for periods varying from one to three years, depending upon the necessity of the case and the condition of the pavement. The standard period is three years in case a great necessity is not shown and the pavement is in good condition."

"The pavement is restored under the eye of an inspector and is done with the very greatest of care, the backfilling material being placed in thin layers, carefully settled and rammed. Moreover, the department on utility must, in addition, furnish a bond equal to amount to about double the cost of the pavement disturbed. The bond is forfeited in case the pavement settles or proves unsatisfactory in other respects."

Atlanta's vexing and costly experience in such matters is due in part to the fact that the city is ceaselessly growing; expansion, improvement and change are its very life. But this does not explain or excuse the tearing up of the same street several times a year for work which could be done as a unit just as easily and far more cheaply than piecemeal. This is an ill which business methods and business methods alone can remedy.

Good Work for Soil Improvement.

The campaign of education which representative fertilizer manufacturers are conducting in the interest of soil improvement is typical of a new economic era in the South.

The farm, though always recognized as the ultimate source of our prosperity, has until years comparatively recently been regarded as a thing apart from the daily concern of commerce and industry. But now the progressive merchant and manufacturer are getting into practical intimate touch with the problems of the farm and with its opportunities.

This is evidenced in the liberal support given corn clubs by business men, in the demonstration trains sent out by railroads and in the co-operation of bankers with enterprises for rural development.

Particularly useful is the publicity campaign the Southern fertilizer men are now carrying on behalf of soil improvement. The fact that they are helping themselves in no wise lessens the value of their work to farming interests. The spirit they thus manifest is admirable and is characteristic of modern business and the progressive South.

The Horror of Jewels

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.
(Copyright, 1912, by Frank Crane.)

You may read of Macbeth's story, "The Diamond necklace." It tells of a poor and beautiful young wife who borrowed of a rich friend whom she had known in her school days a string of diamonds to wear to a ball. She lost the trinket. Her husband borrowed a great sum of money to find it, but he could not find it. The poor couple worked years to pay off the debt. The wretched wife reduced to drudgery, lost all her beauty. Her husband went to prison, and the poor girl died that day she lost her necklace. The poor woman told the truth about her experience to the rich friend. The rich man said it was too bad for the necklace was but property.

The tale is an artistic expression of what might be called The Horror of Jewels.

We Have Passed Overnight From Summer Into Autumn

And Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.'s Ready-to-Wear Section Presents in a Fine Degree of Completeness

The New Season's Authentic and Authoritative Fashions

"Be not the first by whom the new are tried Nor yet the last to lay the old aside."

Women are concerned principally now by the latter admonition—the passing of the autumnal equinox precluded the possibility of one being the first to try the new.

It is time now for the new styles!

Soon we will be getting late—and no one wants to be the last to lay the old aside.

The Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. display of fall fashions has been timed to this moment of certainty—of certainty as to what is genuine and authentic in style.

And now it speaks with that authority.

No, it does not speak but exhibits with that authority. This advertisement can never disclose the wealth and beauty and surpassing variety of the Ready-to-Wear Section. It can but throw out a few hints and leave it to woman's interest in the fall fashions to see what has been done in preparation for this announcement.

There is a completeness and thoroughness about things here this season that has never been attained before—the progress we have made over last year seems greater than from any other one season to another.

Is it the diversity of the styles that Paris has given us, is it extra effort on our part?

It is both. Paris has given us varied styles, we have worked with determination that must put this Ready-to-wear Section first in the minds and hearts of Atlanta women.

What is the style?

Here Are Hundreds of Suits of Different Styles

And the happy result is a season where the strict following of an arbitrary law gives place to the abstract—becomingness, that is the style, as you shall find here, and that is why we stress the bigness of this display.

Becoming Suits for hundreds and hundreds of women

If there is one style that is notable above others it is that the cutaway coat is the motif of the fashions. It seems to run through the scheme of things. It is varied—very varied.

There are cutaway coats that button close about the neck, others have the wide lapels and the general appearance of a man's evening coat, others are fashioned to show a tapestry or brocaded vest over the bust, others show the vest at the waist; and then there are others—and very smart—that are fashioned with a sash to hold the coat to a blouse.

All of which means that women may have a stylish suit that best becomes them!

Long shoulders are noticeable, sleeves hardly begin to be sleeves until they are brought below the shoulders. The butterfly or kimono effect is the result. In many of the "dressey" suits this butterfly effect is carried out with a seamless back and a big butterfly bow at the back waist. The word "fancy" fits in with the new styles, as the cutaway coats, the draped skirts, the trimmings (fur bands, skunk, fitch, broad-tail chinchilla and ermine, tapestry and velvet vests, velvet buttons, collars and cuffs) and the fabrics—velours, matelasse, diagonals, wool failles, wool crepes, duvetine and peau de peche—all these tend to make suits this season fancy and the colors, the rich mahogany shades, the greens—bottle and bronze—the prune shades, tête de negre.

These points show in

- a broadtail suit with skunk collar and cuffs.
- a taupe bayadere cloth suit with velvet collar and wide revers, a tunic of cloth over velvet.
- a black duvetine blouse model with sash, Oriental embroidered vest and peg top skirt.
- and, to prove the scope of styles this year, in a ruby chiffon cloth suit, with a long, straight Balkan coat, edged and belted with velvet and having a collar of sable squirrel.

— a combination suit has a coat of tête de negre matelasse and a draped skirt of peau de peche in the same shade. The coat has a collar of gold and prune tapestry.

But it seems hardly fair to mention a mere half dozen suits out of all these that are worthy and distinctive.

See them with your own eyes and judge how well we have solved the suit problem for the women of Atlanta this Fall.

The New Dresses Are Charming Affairs

Exquisite Evening Dresses, Glorious Afternoon Costumes and Smart Street Dresses.

Here is Paris!

Fact is we doubt if one could shop in Paris with such satisfaction as one may right here! The fashions that the wizards scattered over Paris have evolved are gathered here within arms' reach—you may see and study them all, side by side—reproductions, yes, and therefore sans the prices of the originals.

To tell you that we have gathered great numbers of more beautiful dresses this season than ever before is but to tell what will probably be the first expression of those who know us best.

The styles are not simple, the richness of fabrics, of colors and the masses of laces and nets rob the evening and afternoon dresses of simplicity and create a glory that is new.

And therefore one must be circumspect this season. Good taste is never gaudy—and in the hands of the lesser artists the richness that is the mark of fashion becomes a mass of colors—bizarre and outre. Not so here.

One dress after another of surprising beauty.

A salmon pink Canton Crepe has a six inch wide girdle of blue chenille, embroidered in green and yellow and terra cotta flowers—oriental in the extreme—the girdle ends in a long navy streamer. A bold combination of colors and a beautiful one. The bodice is covered with sand colored chantilly lace.

A bronze crepe dress has a bodice of shadow lace, wide black moire girdle, a red corsage rose, the skirt drapes most gracefully.

A dainty affair, a chiffon dress of morning light blue underbodice, with lavender girdle and little French flowers on bodice. The skirt shows an over-drop of shadow lace.

Dresses for street wear take in more richness. The materials—woolen crepes, woolen matelasses, diagonals, charmeuse, the new corded silks, the silk brocades and the silk matelasses show the tendency, as do the always draped skirts, the use of sashes, the frillings at the sleeves and necks, the "vest effects" in oriental colors. There is much of interest here right now.

A HOUSE-BOAT RESTAURANT

Where Colonel and Mrs. Lowry will be entertained.

Few cities of any size can boast a houseboat restaurant as has been arranged in the National Conservation exposition. This great show which, as its name implies, is unique in the direct application of the principles of conservation to the entire country and already the gate receipts are exceeded by a sum equivalent to the cost of the buildings, surrounding a lake of clear water, are commanding pictures shown herewith illustrating this fact. The Van Wright, is reflected so clearly that even in the photograph what is real and which reflection.

Bottled Water.

The L. S. Morris company made sales amounting to $16,500 last week.

The largest of these sales was of 17 Atlanta lots, 100x400, aggregating $10,400, on lot 4615, which brought $5,000 cash. J. E. Pritchett of the Bottled Water company has sold 100x400, to the McKenney Trust company to D. G. Durman, who will use it for a home.

Mr. Durman, president of the agency, said that both inquiries and sales were increasing rapidly during the last ten days, and that the prospects for a good fall business in real estate are excellent.

Besides the above sales were made during the week to $1,500.

Peachtree Highlands, 100x400, lot 18, Block E, $900; lot 9, block C, $1,400; 24, block E, $720. In Woodstock, lot 10, block 1, $1,200; lot 10, block 1, $400; lot 1, block 2, $1,000; lot 19, block 3, $600; lot 14, block 4, $400.
